

Since the implementation of the system, it is once again a joy to sit down in the evening and partake in a family meal without being constantly pestered by unsolicited calls from telemarketers. Any deviation from what now exists will be a retrograde and wholly unwanted intrusion of privacy and a total reduction in the quality of family life. If I wish to purchase anything, I will undertake personal responsibility to do so on a site-specific and as needed basis. This should as of right, be my prerogative.